

Karlyn Sutherland

ARTIST STATEMENT

Central to my work is a long-standing interest in the bond between people and place. My practice explores this dialogue through glass and architecture, with a focus on how characteristics and qualities of space can shape our experience, memories and sense of attachment to our surroundings.

My work in glass is an extension of the sensibilities and skills that I have honed as an architectural designer. Glass is an evocative material, able to readily convey atmosphere, emotion and narrative; it has the ability to reveal memories, generate associations and encourage the imagination in ways that other mediums often cannot.

Autobiographical in nature, my work is a reaction to vivid memories and intangible qualities of significant moments; distilling and communicating the essence of an experience of light and shadow, each piece aims to evoke or contribute to architectural space and atmosphere. The haptic, hands-on act of making is contemplative - a tool which allows me to explore, contemplate and strengthen my own relationship with and understanding of place.
